Digital Forensics

Detailed analysis to navigate and mitigate cyber incidents

Digital Forensics is the cornerstone of effective cyber incident response, delivering clarity, legal assurance, and actionable insights when your organisation needs them most.

We conduct expert-led investigations into cyber events, collecting and analysing digital artefacts to reconstruct incident timelines, preserve evidence, and support legal and regulatory requirements.

Through digital forensics, we uncover risks such as data theft, insider threats, unauthorised access, malware activity, and gaps in your organisation's security controls and incident response processes.

Our forensics will empower your response

Actionable recommendations

Clear guidance to strengthen your cyber defences.

Clear incident timelines

Fast, accurate timelines for quick decisions.

Strengthen resilience

Uncover gaps in security controls and incident response processes.

Legally robust evidence handling

All artefacts are collected and preserved to meet legal and regulatory standards.

Our approach

Our specialists scope each event, collect artefacts under strict forensic protocols, and deliver detailed reports. We ensure chain of custody, legal admissibility, and clarity throughout the investigation.

Scope and review

We begin by reviewing the cyber event to identify and define the scope of digital artefacts required for investigation.

Evidence collection

Our team collects the scoped artefacts, on-site if needed, following strict forensic protocols to preserve integrity and legal admissibility.

Forensic analysis and reporting

We conduct advanced forensic analysis to reconstruct the timeline of actions and events, delivering a detailed report that documents the investigation and findings.

Fujitsu's cyber team combines deep technical expertise with proven methodologies, supporting complex investigations and insider threat cases. We deliver timely, accurate insights and support your organisation before, during, and after an incident.

Proven expertise

Our team brings years of experience handling complex cyber incidents for organisations of all sizes.
